

12 INFANTS KILLED BY RECALLED PORTABLE CRIBS

DO YOU STILL HAVE ONE?

This May, an Illinois toddler was fatally injured when a portable crib collapsed. This tragedy was made even worse by the fact that the crib had been recalled by its manufacturer more than five years earlier.

The incident has prompted the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to reissue its warnings that parents and caregivers should carefully examine their portable cribs, playpens and playards and contact the manufacturer for instructions if they suspect that one may be subject to a recall or repair campaign.

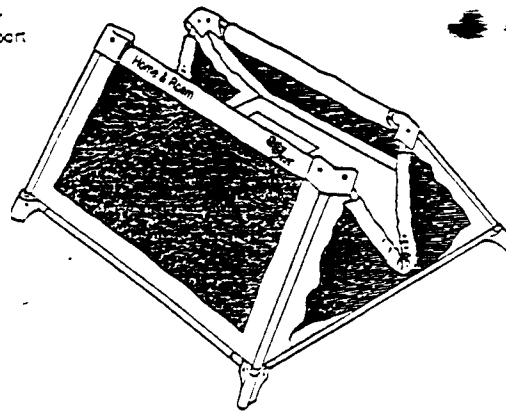

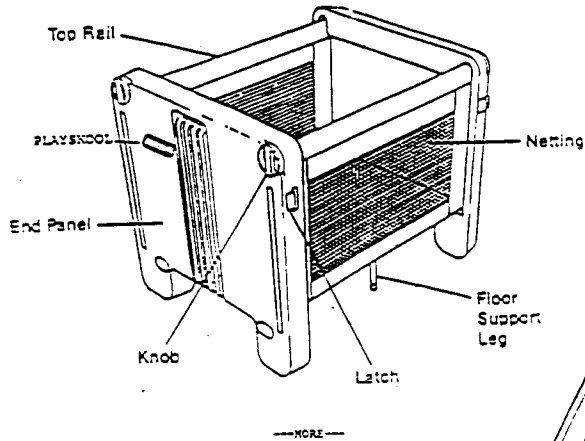

The Commission is particularly concerned about five brands which were available in a variety of models and styles. Each of these could cause a serious injury if they collapse during use. Twelve fatalities have been associated with the cribs to date. The portable playards, cribs and playpens of concern to the Commission include the following:
